To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter in reference to Kathy Short. She has observed in my classroom over the course of two semesters.

Kathy was the type of observer that never hesitated to jump right into whatever our class was doing at the time of her observations. Kathy always went above and beyond her observer call of duty. She was always willing to pitch in two extra hands to whatever our class was doing.

Kathy can recognize students with special needs or students who are falling behind and need extra help. She is always observant and willing to go and give these children an extra hand to make sure that they understand what they are doing.

Kathy is a responsible and active observer. She has shown my classroom and me that she will not only be an excellent teacher, but also an asset to our educational system.

Sincerely,

Jill Jackson
